

OCTOBER

The International Year of Millets, 2023, was declared by the United Nations General Assembly to raise awareness of the nutritional and ecological benefits of millets and their potential to improve.

On the spirit of this occasion, the Culinary Club took the initiative to educate its members on Millets and its importance, its place in society and the benefits it has to offer us.

The event started with a presentation which covered a range of topics related to millets, including their history, cultivation, nutritional benefits, and culinary uses. The presenter also discussed the importance of millets for sustainable food security and nutrition.

After research the topic was presented on stage and the particular subjects were discussed, The quiz was conducted after the presentation and covered the same topics on Millets it was conducted for the members of the club

Position holders of the quiz - Abnner and Ananya Vsadev of 11B as the winner and runner up respectively, and Lokesh of 9D as the 2nd runner up

The millet quiz event was a great success and helped to raise awareness of millets among students and their families. It also promoted the consumption of millets, which are a nutritious and sustainable food choice.
